

ORGANISED · TAILORED · READY TO SHIP

Three matches. Three whiskies. One summer.

Everything you need for the Wolfburn × FIFA World Cup 2026 launch: blog posts, email campaigns, ad copy, SEO. Organised by type. Skim the contents below to jump straight to what you need.

WHAT'S IN THIS DOCUMENT

The full Wolfburn World Cup 2026 campaign package. Four headline deliverables across one organised package: 4 blog posts (one cornerstone + three match-day dispatches), 16 emails (3 launch variants + 3 pre-match countdowns + 9 post-match reaction templates), 3 paid ad campaigns (9 ad creatives with multiple headline variants each), and the full SEO + keywords package ready to drop into the CMS. Every piece is tailored to the 2026 World Cup and tied to specific Scotland fixtures.

CONTENTS

Skim. Click. Jump to what you need.

SECTION 1

4 BLOG POSTS

Blog posts

The cornerstone long-read plus three short match-day dispatches, one for each fixture.

1.1 · Cornerstone · "Three matches. Three drams."	1,200w
1.2 · Match day · "Welcome to Caithness, Haiti"	500w
1.3 · Match day · "Welcome to Caithness, Morocco"	500w
1.4 · Match day · "Welcome to Caithness, Brazil"	500w

SECTION 2

16 EMAILS

Email campaigns

The definitive launch email plus optional A/B variants, pre-match countdowns, post-match reaction templates ready to fire.

2.1 · The launch email (single comprehensive send)	1
2.2 · Alternative subject angles (optional A/B/C)	3
2.3 · Pre-match countdowns (3 sends)	3
2.4 · Post-match reactions (9 templates)	9

SECTION 3

3 CAMPAIGNS

Ad copy

Three paid campaigns, three ad creatives per campaign, multiple headline variants each.

3.1 · Campaign A · The Tartan Army	3 ads
3.2 · Campaign B · The Collector	3 ads
3.3 · Campaign C · The Discovery	3 ads

SEO + keywords

Title, description, keywords by intent, full meta block (Open Graph, Twitter, schema.org) ready to drop in.

4.1 · Title + meta description + slug	3
4.2 · Keywords (22 terms by intent)	22
4.3 · Full <head> meta block	copy

Campaign timeline

The 27-day publishing schedule, every touchpoint anchored to a specific match date.

The *b*log posts.

One cornerstone long-read plus three short match-day dispatches. The cornerstone publishes at T-14d alongside the email launch. The match-day pieces publish on the morning of each fixture (Brazil's publishes the night before, given the 02:00 BST kick-off).

BLOG POST 1.1

CORNERSTONE · 1,200 WORDS

"Three matches. Three drams. One summer."

Publishes T-14d alongside the launch email. The campaign's lead piece. Drop-cap, sign-off, ready for the CMS.

Three matches. Three drams. One summer.

A Wolfburn dispatch on the 2026 World Cup, the three single malts we have made for Scotland's three group matches, and the question every Scottish household is currently asking itself.

BY WOLFBURN DISTILLERY THURSO • CAITHNESS 27 MAY 2026 9 MIN READ

On Sunday 14 June, at the inhumane hour of nine o'clock in the evening BST, Scotland will walk out at Gillette Stadium in Foxborough, Massachusetts, and play a World Cup match for the first time since the millennium was a different shape. The team has waited twenty-eight years for the sentence. The country has waited twenty-eight years for the sentence. Most of the players in our colours that evening will have spent most of their adult lives preparing for the sentence. The sentence does not, at present, contain a result. We will keep you informed.

What we have done about it sits in a set on the bench in front of us. Three bottles of single malt Scotch whisky, hand-bottled here in Thurso, released as a single Wolfburn set to mark Scotland's three group-stage fixtures at the 2026 World Cup. The 10 Year Old, in warm cream and gold, for the opener against Haiti on Sunday 14 June at Foxborough. The 8 Year Old, in cobalt blue, for the second match against Morocco on Friday 19 June, also at Foxborough. The 12 Year Old, in golden yellow, for the third match against Brazil on Wednesday 24 June, in Miami, at the unhelpful hour of two o'clock in the morning local-to-us. Drams for the Tartan Army, is what we have called them.

The set comes as a single release. You buy the set, you receive three bottles, you open them in the order the matches arrive, and you pour them whichever way the result goes. The bottles do not require a particular outcome to justify themselves. They have been here longer than the result. They will be here when the result has stopped mattering, which in our experience tends to happen by about the following Wednesday.

. . .

The reason there are three bottles, in three different colours, in three different ages, is not because we wanted to overcomplicate the gift section of the website. It is because each match is a different kind of evening, and a Scottish whisky person knows you do not pour the same dram for an opener against a team you are expected to beat as for a closer against a team that has won the tournament five times.

The 10 Year Old, in cream and gold, is the opening-match dram. Openings are an inherently optimistic act. You do not begin a tournament you do not believe you can win, even if you are quietly certain you will not win it. Pour it before the players come out. Sit it on the table. Let it breathe.

The 8 Year Old, in cobalt blue, is the second-match dram. By the time we walk out for Morocco on the Friday, the Haiti match will have happened, and we will know things we did not know on Wednesday. Whichever way the first result went, the second match is now the match that matters. Pour it slowly. The 8 Year Old is the youngest in the set, brighter on the nose, and it will reward you for not rushing it.

The 12 Year Old, in golden yellow, is the Brazil dram. Two things to know about the Brazil match. The first is that the kick-off in Miami is at two o'clock in the morning BST, which means most of the country will either be awake when they should be asleep or asleep when they should be awake, and either choice is correct. The second is that Brazil have won the World Cup five times. Scotland have not. We can sit with that. The 12 Year Old is the flagship of the Wolfburn range, twelve years in oak in a building on the very top edge of the country, and it gets the deepest moment of the three. Whether the Wednesday morning turns out to be a famous Scottish win or a famous Scottish defeat, the colour will be correct. Pour it like you mean it.

Scotland's football history is not a history of results. It is a history of moments. There is a passage in any Scottish writer worth reading about Jim Baxter at Wembley in 1967, where Baxter, having helped put Scotland 3-2 up against the World Cup holders, spent the closing minutes of the match doing keepie-uppies in the centre circle. The English players, by all accounts, did not find it funny. Baxter did not stop. The keepie-uppies are remembered. The result, less so.

Eleven years later, on a hot night in Mendoza in 1978, a small Aberdeenshire-trained midfielder named Archie Gemmill received the ball thirty yards from the Dutch goal in a World Cup group match, beat three defenders without appearing to try, and chipped the ball gently over the goalkeeper. Scotland went out of that tournament. The goal is on the wall of every pub in this country that has a wall. The exit is on the wall of nowhere. The moment has eaten the result.

This is the trick of the thing. The result is a small part of the story. The rest is ours.

The three bottles ship together as a single release. No theatrics. No decoration. Each bottle carries the date, the venue, and the opponent it was made for. We have not over-thought the presentation, because the bottles do not need help. The 12 Year Old, in particular, has been in cask since long before anyone in this country had begun to take the idea of the World Cup seriously again.

First allocation to the newsletter list. Storefront goes live on Monday. We are not going to make many. We will not be repeating the set, for the simple reason that we will not be repeating the summer.

Sunday the 14th. Friday the 19th. Wednesday the 24th. Pour them slowly. Look at the bottle for a moment before you look at the score. Mibbe aye, mibbe no, you will have an excellent summer either way.

Fortune favours the brave.

WOLFBURN DISTILLERY · THURSO · CAITHNESS · THE WAIT IS OVER

BLOG POST 1.2

MATCH DAY · 500 WORDS

“Welcome to Caithness, Haiti.”

Publishes 14 June 16:00 BST. Five hours before kick-off. Anchors the 10 Year Old as tonight's dram.

MATCH 1 • 14 JUNE • 16:00 BST

Welcome to Caithness, Haiti.

Tonight, Sunday 14 June, at nine o'clock in the evening, Scotland plays a World Cup match for the first time since 1998. We have prepared the whisky. You bring the optimism.

We were thinking about you, Haiti, on the way to work this morning. It is, by all accounts, an unusual feeling to be a country in the middle of a Highland summer and to be thinking about a country in the middle of the Caribbean at the same time, but here we are, and there you are, and in five hours and forty-three minutes the eleven of you will walk out at Gillette Stadium and play the eleven of us at a World Cup. Stranger things have happened. Almost none of them in Foxborough.

The Wolfburn 10 Year Old is on the table next to the typewriter. We will not be drinking it yet. We will be drinking it shortly before kick-off, which by our reckoning is twenty minutes from now in your kitchen, an hour from now in the Edinburgh house Scotland's manager is currently driving through, and however long it takes the Foxborough tannoy to find the words "and now, the national anthems."

The 10 Year Old, the cream-and-gold one, is the opener of the three. We have given it the warm cream because openings are an inherently optimistic act, and we did not want to dress the first dram of the summer in anything that looked as if it knew the score in advance. It is matured in second-fill Oloroso sherry hogsheads and ex-bourbon casks, has the depth of character of a whisky that has been here a while, and the temperament of a whisky that does not feel the need to introduce itself loudly. It will be in the Glencairn before the kit comes out.

We do not know the result, Haiti. We know you have a goalkeeper who has been beating people who paid a lot of money to bet against him, and a midfield that runs at people who paid a lot of money to defend against them. We know we have an Andy Robertson and a Scott McTominay and a country that has spent twenty-eight years wondering whether either of them would ever wear the dark blue at a World Cup. We know we are going to find out by quarter to eleven this evening.

Either way, we have prepared the whisky. The cream bottle is for the opener.

Mibbe aye, mibbe no.

Fortune favours the brave.

WOLFBURN DISTILLERY · THURSO · FIVE HOURS FORTY-THREE MINUTES TO KICK-OFF

BLOG POST 1.3

MATCH DAY · 500 WORDS

“Welcome to Caithness, Morocco.”

Publishes 19 June 15:00 BST. Five hours before kick-off. The cobalt bottle comes off the shelf.

MATCH 2 • 19 JUNE • 15:00 BST

Welcome to Caithness, Morocco.

Tonight, Friday 19 June, at eight o'clock in the evening, Scotland plays its second match of the tournament. The cobalt bottle comes off the shelf.

The first match has happened, Morocco, and we have not slept the same way since. We will not tell you what the result was, although you can probably find out from the television in the lobby, because telling you what the result was would lend it more authority than it currently deserves. The result was a hundred-and-twenty-minute kind of result. The dram that followed was a sit-by-the-window kind of dram. We have moved on.

The Wolfburn 8 Year Old is on the table. The cobalt-blue bottle, the youngest of the three, the cooler colour of the set. We have given it cobalt because by the time we walk out to play you, Morocco, the country has had five days to think about what it saw on Sunday, and a cooler colour is what those five days call for. The 8 Year Old is brighter on the nose than the 10 Year Old, more direct on the palate, and entirely uninterested in the homework Scotland has done on your wing-backs.

Things we know about you, Morocco. You play with a discipline that the rest of the group is not going to be able to copy. You beat Spain in 2022. You finished above Belgium and Croatia. You are not, in any sensible reading of the form guide, the second-easiest match of our group. We have looked at the form guide twice this week and put it back in the drawer, because looking at the form guide does not seem to be having the effect on our nerves that we were hoping for.

What we do know is the dram. The cobalt bottle, the 8 Year Old, the second pour. Pour it slowly. The composure of the second match is the composure of a country that has been here before, and we have not been here before, but the bottle has, in its way, and it can hold the composure for us.

Tonight, eight o'clock BST. Foxborough again. Mibbe aye, mibbe no.

Fortune favours the brave.

WOLFBURN DISTILLERY · THURSO · FIVE HOURS TO KICK-OFF

BLOG POST 1.4

MATCH DAY · 500 WORDS

“Welcome to Caithness, Brazil.”

Publishes 23 June 20:00 BST. Six hours before the 02:00 BST kick-off. The flagship 12 Year Old is the dram.

Welcome to Caithness, Brazil.

Tonight, the night between Tuesday and Wednesday, at two o'clock in the morning BST, Scotland plays Brazil at a World Cup. The 12 Year Old has been on the table since six this evening.

There is no graceful way to write to you, Brazil. The five stars on your shirt are not a rhetorical decoration. The eleven of you that will run out at the Hard Rock Stadium tomorrow morning will, between them, be worth more money than the entire Scottish football pyramid, and the goalkeeper who Scotland has to beat tomorrow morning to take a point off you is, by general consent, the best goalkeeper in the world. We have not pretended otherwise this week. We are not about to start now.

We have made the dram correspondingly serious. The Wolfburn 12 Year Old, in golden yellow, is the flagship of our range. Twelve years in oak. Hand-selected Oloroso sherry butts and ex-bourbon casks. Forty-six percent vol. Non-chill filtered. Natural colour, which on a 12 Year Old means the colour you are looking at in the Glencairn is the colour the whisky chose for itself in the cask, and not the colour someone in marketing thought might play better on a shelf. We have given it gold because what the moment asks for is gold, regardless of which way the result goes.

You will excuse us, Brazil, for spending most of this letter talking about the whisky and not about the match. We have rehearsed this match in our heads since the draw was made. We have rehearsed it in three or four different outcomes, most of which involve a moment of unexpected joy followed by a passage of sustained suffering. We have rehearsed it as a famous Scottish defeat with our heads held high. We have rehearsed it as Archie Gemmill all over again, except this time in a stadium with air conditioning. The rehearsal has not, frankly, made it any easier.

What we know is the dram. The gold bottle. The 12 Year Old. Pour it slowly, somewhere between half-past one and a quarter to two in the morning UK time. Sit it on the side table. Look at it once. Do not, under any circumstances, look at the form guide.

By half past three in the morning we will know what the summer of 2026 was.
By eight o'clock the same morning we will be on the way to work. The country has been here before, in a manner of speaking. The bottle has been here longer.
Mibbe aye, mibbe no.

Fortune favours the brave.

WOLFBURN DISTILLERY · THURSO · SIX HOURS TO KICK-OFF, GIVE OR TAKE

↑ back to contents

2

EMAIL
CAMPAIGNS16 DELIVERABLES · 1 LAUNCH + 3 A/B VARIANTS + 3
COUNTDOWNS + 9 REACTIONS

The email campaigns.

Three launch variants for A/B/C testing, three pre-match countdown sends (one per fixture), nine post-match reaction templates (win/draw/loss for each match) ready to fire within 20 minutes of full-time.

EMAIL 2.1

THE LAUNCH · SINGLE COMPREHENSIVE SEND

The launch email · explains the whole campaign

The definitive introduction email. Sent T-14d to the full active list. Walks through the whole campaign in a single send: names the collection, explains each of the three bottles, frames the set, sets up the World Cup window. Use this if you want one clean send instead of an A/B/C test.

TYPE	Launch · single comprehensive send (recommended)
FROM	Wolfburn Distillery · news@wolfburn.com
TO	Full active list
SEND	Sunday 31 May · 09:00 BST
SUBJECT	Scotland's first World Cup in twenty-eight years. We made you a thing.
PREVIEW	Three matches. Three single malts. One set. Mibbe aye, mibbe no.

Three matches. Three drams. One summer.

A set of three single malt Scotch whiskies, hand-bottled in Thurso for Scotland's three group-stage matches at the 2026 World Cup.

Dear {{ first_name }},

On Sunday 14 June, at nine o'clock in the evening BST, Scotland will walk out at Gillette Stadium in Foxborough and play a World Cup match for the first time since 1998. Twenty-eight years is a long time to wait for the sentence we have finally allowed ourselves to write at the top of a newsletter without a footnote. We have written it. We are moving on.

What we have done about it sits in a set on the bench in front of us. Three bottles of single malt Scotch whisky, hand-bottled here in Thurso, released together as a single Wolfburn set to mark Scotland's three group-stage fixtures at the 2026 FIFA World Cup. We are calling the set Drams for the Tartan Army.

It is, in plain language, three whiskies for three matches. One for each fixture. One for each evening. The set comes in a single set. You open the bottles in the order the matches arrive.

The 10 Year Old · in warm cream and gold

For Sunday 14 June. Scotland v Haiti. Gillette Stadium, Foxborough. 21:00 BST. The opening match. The warm cream is for an inherently optimistic moment. Matured in second-fill Oloroso sherry hogsheads and ex-bourbon casks. Pour it before the players come out.

The 8 Year Old · in cobalt blue

For Friday 19 June. Scotland v Morocco. Gillette Stadium, Foxborough. 20:00 BST. The second match. The cooler colour for the match the country has had five days to think about. Brighter on the nose. It will reward you for not rushing it.

The 12 Year Old · in golden yellow

For Wednesday 24 June. Scotland v Brazil. Hard Rock Stadium, Miami. 02:00 BST. The flagship of our range. Twelve years in oak. Gold because that is what the moment asks for, regardless of which way the result goes. Pour it like you mean it.

The three bottles ship together as a single release. No theatrics. No decoration. Each one carries the date, the venue, and the opponent it was made for. The 10 Year Old is in cream and gold for the opener at Foxborough. The 8 Year Old is in cobalt blue for Morocco. The 12 Year Old is in golden yellow for the marquee match in Miami. Open them in the order the matches arrive.

It is a single limited release. When the set is gone, the set is gone. We will not repeat the set, for the simple reason that we will not repeat the summer.

First allocation to the newsletter list. Storefront goes live on Monday.

RESERVE YOUR SET

The first matchday dispatch follows in a week. Between now and 14 June we will write to you twice. The first letter will be the set opened, photographed properly, with the tasting notes you would expect. The second will be a longer piece on what Archie Gemmill knew about Scotland's relationship with the World Cup, and why we have given the third bottle the deepest colour.

Until then, the kettle is on. Mibbe aye, mibbe no.

Fortune favours the brave.

Wolfburn Distillery
Henderson Park • Thurso • Caithness • KW14 7XW
Hand-bottled in the same building since 2013

EMAIL 2.2

ALTERNATIVE ANGLES • 3 OPTIONAL VARIANTS

Alternative subject + opening angles (optional A/B/C)

If you want to A/B test instead of a single send, the three variants below offer different angles on the same launch: World Cup direct, anchor phrase, collector / scarcity. Use these only if there's appetite for testing. Otherwise the single send above does the job.

VARIANT	A • World Cup direct (recommended default)
FROM	Wolfburn Distillery • news@wolfburn.com
SUBJECT	Sunday 14 June. Scotland plays at a World Cup.
PREVIEW	Three matches. Three whiskies. The waiting is over.

Three matches. Three whiskies. One summer.

Scotland's first World Cup in twenty-eight years. We have prepared the drams.

The wait is over. On Sunday 14 June, at nine o'clock in the evening BST, Scotland will walk out at Gillette Stadium in Foxborough and play a World Cup match for the first time since 1998.

What we have made is a set of three single malt Scotch whiskies, hand-bottled in Thurso, released as a single set to mark Scotland's three group-stage fixtures at the 2026 World Cup.

- Sun 14 Jun • 21:00 BST • Foxborough. Scotland v Haiti. The 10 Year Old, in cream and gold.
- Fri 19 Jun • 20:00 BST • Foxborough. Scotland v Morocco. The 8 Year Old, in cobalt blue.
- Wed 24 Jun • 02:00 BST • Miami. Scotland v Brazil. The 12 Year Old, in golden yellow.

You receive the set. You open the bottles in the order the matches arrive. You pour them whichever way each result goes. The bottles do not require a particular outcome to justify themselves.

First allocation to the newsletter list. Storefront goes live Monday.

RESERVE THE SET

Fortune favours the brave.

Wolfburn Distillery • Henderson Park • Thurso • Caithness

VARIANT B • Anchor phrase + tournament
SUBJECT Twenty-eight years. Mibbe aye, mibbe no.
PREVIEW A wee set of single malts for Scotland's World Cup return.

Twenty-eight years. Mibbe aye, mibbe no.

Scotland are back at the World Cup. We made three drams for the three matches.

You will know by now that Scotland are at the World Cup. You will know that the last time we managed it, most of the men in our colours had not yet started school. You will know that the first match is Sunday 14 June against Haiti, the second is Friday 19 June against Morocco, the third is Wednesday 24 June against Brazil at the kind of hour usually reserved for emergencies.

We made you a thing.

Three bottles of single malt Scotch whisky. One for each match. The 10 Year Old wears cream and gold and is the dram for Sunday. The 8 Year Old wears cobalt blue and is the dram for Friday. The 12 Year Old wears golden yellow and is the dram for Wednesday morning, in the same way that one wears a good coat to a difficult meeting.

You receive them as a set, in a set, with no further explanation, because we trust you to know what to do with them.

The Tartan Army gets first refusal. The rest on Monday.

TAKE A SET

Mibbe aye, mibbe no. Fortune favours the brave.

VARIANT	C • Collector / scarcity (international segment)
SUBJECT	A World Cup, in three bottles. Won't repeat.
PREVIEW	Hand-bottled in Thurso. Three single malts for Scotland's three group matches.

A World Cup, in three bottles.

Hand-bottled in Thurso. A limited Wolfburn release for Scotland's first World Cup in twenty-eight years.

The 2026 World Cup opens on 11 June. Scotland's first match arrives three days later, against Haiti in Foxborough. The second follows on 19 June, against Morocco. The third, the one we have all been thinking about since the draw, against Brazil in Miami on 24 June.

We have made a thing for the three of them.

Drams for the Tartan Army is a set of three single malt Scotch whiskies, hand-bottled in our distillery on the very north edge of Scotland, released as a single set to mark the three fixtures. Each bottle carries the date, the venue, the opponent, and a small Saltire raised against a darker flag.

- 10 Year Old, 35cl, 46% vol. Scotland v Haiti. Foxborough. 14 June.
- 8 Year Old, 35cl, 46% vol. Scotland v Morocco. Foxborough. 19 June.
- 12 Year Old, 35cl, 46% vol. Scotland v Brazil. Miami. 24 June.

Non-chill filtered. Natural colour. Released as a single limited set of three.

It is a limited release. When the set is gone, the set is gone. We will not repeat it, for the simple reason that we will not repeat the summer.

RESERVE YOUR SET

Fortune favours the brave.

Wolfburn Distillery • Thurso • Caithness • since 2013

Pre-match countdowns • one per fixture

Sent the day before each match (the morning of, for the late-night Brazil match). Anchors the correct bottle as "tonight's dram."

WHEN Sent 13 June 09:00 BST • before Haiti
SUBJECT Tomorrow. Foxborough.
PREVIEW The 10 Year Old. Sunday evening. 21:00 BST.

Tomorrow. Foxborough.

The first match. The first dram. Mibbe aye, mibbe no.

Tomorrow evening, at nine o'clock BST, Scotland walks out at Gillette Stadium in Foxborough and plays Haiti at a World Cup. This is the sentence we have waited twenty-eight years to write.

If your set has arrived, the cream-and-gold bottle is the one. The 10 Year Old, the opener of the three. Pour it before the players come out. Sit it on the table. Let it breathe.

If your set has not yet arrived, the storefront is still open. We can have a single 10 Year Old on its way to you by the morning.

Twenty-eight years, tomorrow. We will not pretend we are calm.

THE 10 YEAR OLD

Fortune favours the brave.

WHEN Sent 18 June 09:00 BST • before Morocco
SUBJECT Tomorrow. Foxborough again.
PREVIEW The 8 Year Old. Friday evening. 20:00 BST.

Tomorrow. Foxborough again.

The 8 Year Old comes off the shelf at half past seven.

Tomorrow evening, at eight o'clock BST, Scotland returns to Gillette Stadium to play Morocco. Whichever way Sunday went, this is the match that decides what happens on Wednesday.

The cobalt-blue bottle, the 8 Year Old, is the dram for tonight. The cooler colour for the second match. The slightly brighter whisky for the slightly more dangerous fixture. Pour it slowly. Do not look at the form guide.

Three things we know about tomorrow. One, you will be on the sofa. Two, Morocco will be the harder of the first two opponents. Three, Wednesday is still possible.

READ THE DISPATCH

Mibbe aye, mibbe no. Fortune favours the brave.

WHEN Sent 23 June 18:00 BST • evening before Brazil 02:00 BST kick-off
SUBJECT Tonight. Miami. The big one.
PREVIEW The 12 Year Old. Hard Rock Stadium. 02:00 BST. Brace.

Tonight. Miami. The big one.

The 12 Year Old has been on the side table since six. Two hours to kick-off, give or take.

Tonight, between Tuesday and Wednesday, at two o'clock in the morning BST, Scotland plays Brazil at a World Cup. We will not pretend this is a small match. We will not pretend we have not been thinking about it since the draw was made.

The 12 Year Old is on the side table. The gold one. The flagship. Twelve years in oak. Pour it slowly somewhere between half-past one and a quarter to two. Sit it on the table. Look at it once.

By half past three in the morning we will know what the summer of 2026 was. Most of you will be asleep. Some of you will be awake. Either choice is correct.

Whatever happens tonight, the dram is the same.

THE 12 YEAR OLD

Fortune favours the brave.

EMAIL 2.4

POST-MATCH REACTIONS · 9 SHORT EMAILS

Post-match reaction templates · 3 scenarios × 3 fixtures

For each fixture, three pre-written reaction emails (win, draw, loss). Composer picks the correct one within 20 min of full-time and ships at 09:00 BST the morning after. Full email bodies below each subject line.

After Match 1 · Scotland v Haiti SEND 15 JUNE 09:00 BST

WIN Subject: "A first win. Slowly."

*Scotland won. We will not yet say "calmly," because nobody in this country has felt calm since the draw was made. But we have a result, and we have a 10 Year Old that did its job. The 8 Year Old is the next bottle on the shelf. Friday. Foxborough. Morocco.

DRAW Subject: "A point. We will take it."

A point in your first World Cup match in twenty-eight years is, on inspection, a point. We are taking it. The 10 Year Old made it through ninety minutes with us, which is more than can be said for some of the midfield. Friday is the match that matters now. The 8 Year Old has been waiting.

LOSS Subject: "It happens. The 8 Year Old is still here."

A defeat in the opening match is, historically, a Scottish way of beginning a tournament. The 10 Year Old held its composure better than the back four. The set has two bottles left, and the group has two matches left. We will not be moved. Friday, Foxborough.

After Match 2 · Scotland v Morocco SEND 20 JUNE 09:00 BST

WIN Subject: "Two from two. Brace."

Scotland won. We have not been here in a generation. There is a man in Cowdenbeath telling everyone he saw this coming. We did not. The 8 Year Old has been put to bed with appropriate respect. The 12 Year Old is on the side table. Brazil. Wednesday morning. Brace.

DRAW

Subject: "One point each. Brazil decides the rest."

A draw with Morocco is not the result the bookmakers wanted, but it is the result we will take with a 12 Year Old in our hand and Wednesday morning still on the calendar. Scotland's group is going to the final fixture with everything to play for, which is the most Scottish sentence we have written this month.

LOSS

Subject: "The 12 Year Old, still on the table."

It happens. The Moroccans were better. The 8 Year Old held us through the closing minutes with the kind of dignity the midfield could not. Wednesday morning is now a Brazilian match with nothing on it for us except dignity, and there is no whisky in the country better dressed for dignity than the 12 Year Old. Brace.

After Match 3 • Scotland v Brazil

SEND 25 JUNE 09:00 BST

WIN

Subject: "We beat Brazil. We are not making this up."

Scotland beat Brazil at a World Cup. The 12 Year Old is the only witness in this building who has stayed composed about it. We will be writing books about this morning for the rest of our lives. The set is empty. The summer is not.

DRAW

Subject: "A draw with Brazil. Slowly."

A point off Brazil at a World Cup is the kind of result we will be telling people about until the next tournament. The 12 Year Old has been with us for ninety minutes plus stoppage time plus the inevitable VAR check. Pour what is left. The empty bottle is now a souvenir.

LOSS

Subject: "Pour what is left. Look at the bottle."

Brazil were better. We will let them have it. The 12 Year Old was always going to be a dram for the moment, not the result, and the moment is in the room. Three matches. Three drams. One summer. Mibbe aye, mibbe no. The set can stay on the shelf. We will not be repeating it.

3

AD COPY

3 CAMPAIGNS · 9 CREATIVES · ~30 HEADLINE VARIANTS

The ad campaigns.

Three concurrent paid campaigns. Every primary text leads with the 2026 World Cup in the first sentence. Headlines come in 2-3 variants per ad for A/B testing.

CAMPAIGN 3.1

40% OF SPEND · UK

Campaign A • The Tartan Army

For the believers, the regulars, the home pour. UK Scottish football fans + whisky enthusiasts, 38-68.

For the believers, the regulars, the home pour.

CHANNEL	AUDIENCE	BUDGET	WINDOW
Meta · TikTok	UK · 38-68 · Scottish football fans · whisky enthusiasts	40% of spend	T-14d → kick-off

AD 1 • STATIC HERO • FEED

HEADLINES (TEST 3)

- 01 Sunday 14 June. Scotland v Haiti. 21:00 BST.
- 02 Three matches. Three whiskies. Mibbe aye, mibbe no.
- 03 The dram for the World Cup we waited 28 years for.

PRIMARY TEXT

Scotland's first World Cup since 1998. Three group matches: Haiti on 14 June, Morocco on 19 June, Brazil on 24 June. We have made three single malt Scotch whiskies for the three of them, hand-bottled in Thurso, released as a single set. Drams for the Tartan Army.

CTA

SHOP THE SET

AD 2 • CAROUSEL • THE THREE MATCHES

FRAME 1 COVER HEADLINE

- 01 Three matches. Three whiskies. One World Cup.
- 02 Scotland's group, in three bottles.

FRAME 2 • HAITI

14 JUN · Foxborough · 21:00 BST. The 10 Year Old.

FRAME 3 • MOROCCO

19 JUN · Foxborough · 20:00 BST. The 8 Year Old.

FRAME 4 • BRAZIL

24 JUN · Miami · 02:00 BST. The 12 Year Old.

PRIMARY TEXT

Drams for the Tartan Army. A set of three single malt Scotch whiskies for Scotland's three group-stage matches at the 2026 World Cup. Open them in order. Pour them whichever way each result goes.

CTA

RESERVE THE SET

AD 3 • 15S REEL • COUNTDOWN ENERGY

HOOK (FIRST 2S)

01 "Sunday. Foxborough. Scotland plays at a World Cup."

02 "Twenty-eight years. Three matches. Three drams."

ON-SCREEN OVERLAY

14 JUN • Haiti / 19 JUN • Morocco / 24 JUN • Brazil / The whisky is ready. Are you?

CTA

TAP FOR THE SET

CAMPAIGN 3.2

35% OF SPEND • INTERNATIONAL

Campaign B • The Collector

For the international whisky audience. US, EU, 40-72. Single malt collectors and whisky club members. Heritage + scarcity register.

For the international whisky audience. Heritage + scarcity.

CHANNEL

Meta · Google Display ·
YouTube pre-roll

AUDIENCE

US · EU · 40-72 · single malt collectors

BUDGET

35% of spend

WINDOW

T-14d → T+30

AD 1 • EDITORIAL HERO • STATIC FEED

HEADLINES (TEST 3)

- 01 A 2026 World Cup, in three bottles.
- 02 Hand-bottled in Thurso, for Scotland's three group matches.
- 03 One summer. Three drams. Won't repeat.

PRIMARY TEXT

Drams for the Tartan Army is a limited Wolfburn release marking Scotland's return to the FIFA World Cup after twenty-eight years. Three single malt Scotch whiskies, hand-bottled in our distillery on the very north edge of Scotland. Each bears the date, the venue, and the opponent: Haiti (14 Jun, Foxborough), Morocco (19 Jun, Foxborough), Brazil (24 Jun, Miami). Released as a single set in a set.

CTA

RESERVE YOUR SET

AD 2 • 30S FILM • LONG-FORM

VO OPEN

- 01 "On Sunday 14 June, Scotland plays a World Cup match for the first time since 1998."
- 02 "Twenty-eight years. Three matches. Three single malt Scotch whiskies."

END FRAME

Three bottles in lockup. "Three matches. Three drams. One summer." CTA chip.

CTA

VIEW THE SET

AD 3 • RETARGETING • CART ABANDON

HEADLINES

- 01 The first match is on Sunday. Is the set on your side table?

02 Three matches. Limited release. We won't repeat the summer.

PRIMARY TEXT

You left without finishing. Scotland's first World Cup match in twenty-eight years is on Sunday 14 June. The set of three is a single Wolfburn release. When it is gone, the set is gone.

CTA

COMPLETE ORDER

CAMPAIGN 3.3

25% OF SPEND • BROAD REACH

Campaign C • The Discovery

For the broader paid social audience. Global English, 28-65. Scotland-curious and football-following. Opens the door.

For the broader audience. Open the door.

CHANNEL

Meta · lookalikes + broad reach

AUDIENCE

Global English · 28-65 · Scotland-curious

BUDGET

25% of spend

WINDOW

T-7d → T+14d (across group stage)

AD 1 · VERTICAL REEL / STORY

HOOK (FIRST 2S)

- 01 "Scotland are at the World Cup. We made you a thing."
- 02 "What does a Scottish distillery do when the football team turns up?"
- 03 "Three matches. Three drams. One set."

PRIMARY TEXT

A small Highland distillery in Thurso has hand-bottled three single malt Scotch whiskies for Scotland's three group matches at the 2026 FIFA World Cup. One for Haiti on 14 June. One for Morocco on 19 June. One for Brazil on 24 June. Released together, as a single Wolfburn set, in a set.

CTA

DISCOVER WOLFBURN

AD 2 · DRIVES TO THE BLOG

HEADLINES

- 01 Read: "Three matches. Three drams. One summer."
- 02 Why a Highland distillery made three whiskies for Scotland's World Cup.
- 03 A nine-minute read on the dram for Sunday, Friday, and Wednesday.

PRIMARY TEXT

On Scotland's first World Cup in twenty-eight years. On Jim Baxter at Wembley in 1967. On Archie Gemmill at Mendoza in 1978. On the set of single malt we have made for the summer of 2026.

CTA

READ THE DISPATCH

AD 3 · MATCH-DAY SPECIFIC (ROTATES BY FIXTURE)

MATCH 1 · HAITI HEADLINE

- 01 Sunday. 21:00 BST. Foxborough. The 10 Year Old.

02 Tonight, Scotland plays Haiti at a World Cup.

MATCH 2 • MOROCCO HEADLINE

01 Friday. 20:00 BST. Morocco. The 8 Year Old.

02 The match in the middle. The cobalt bottle.

MATCH 3 • BRAZIL HEADLINE

01 Wednesday morning. 02:00 BST. Brazil. The 12 Year Old.

02 Stay up. The gold one is for tonight.

CTA

GET THE SET

↑ back to contents

The SEO package.

Title, description, keywords organised by intent, full meta block (Open Graph for social shares, Twitter Card, schema.org Article JSON-LD). Use the keyword list for Meta Ads interest seeding too.

SEO 4.1

TITLE + DESCRIPTION + SLUG

Title, meta description, URL slug

The basics. Length-optimised for SERP display (60 / 158 chars).

TITLE TAG + DESCRIPTION

60 / 158 chars

`<title>`

Three Matches, Three Drams · Wolfburn for the 2026 World Cup

`meta description`

A Wolfburn dispatch on Scotland's first World Cup in 28 years, and the set of three single malt Scotch whiskies we have made for Haiti, Morocco, and Brazil. Mibbe aye, mibbe no.

`URL slug`

/blogs/news/three-matches-three-drams-one-summer

SEO 4.2

22 KEYWORDS · BY INTENT

Keywords · primary, long-tail, transactional

Use primary keywords in headings and first paragraphs. Long-tail for body content. Transactional for product page meta + Meta Ads interest seeding.

PRIMARY (5)

single malt scotch whisky

wolfburn distillery

scotland world cup 2026

drams for the tartan army

limited edition whisky

CULTURAL · LONG-TAIL (8)

archie gemmill mendoza 1978

jim baxter wembley 1967

ally macleod scotland

tartan army

mibbe aye mibbe no

caithness whisky

highland single malt

thurso distillery

TRANSACTIONAL (9)

whisky gift set

scotch whisky collectors edition

football themed whisky

world cup whisky

scotland v haiti

scotland v morocco

scotland v brazil

match day dram

set whisky

SEO 4.3

COPY-PASTE READY

Full <head> meta block

Drop this directly into the article's head. Includes Open Graph (FB, IG, LinkedIn, WhatsApp), Twitter Card, and schema.org Article JSON-LD.

←!— PRIMARY —→

```
<title>Three Matches, Three Drams · Wolfburn for the 2026 World Cup</title>
<meta name="description" content="A Wolfburn dispatch on Scotland's first World Cup in 28
<meta name="keywords" content="single malt scotch whisky, wolfburn distillery, scotland w
<meta name="author" content="Wolfburn Distillery">
<meta name="robots" content="index, follow, max-image-preview:large">
<link rel="canonical" href="https://wolfburn.com/blogs/news/three-matches-three-drams-one
```

←!— OPEN GRAPH —→

```
<meta property="og:type" content="article">
<meta property="og:site_name" content="Wolfburn Distillery">
<meta property="og:title" content="Three Matches. Three Drams. One Summer.">
<meta property="og:description" content="On Scotland's first World Cup in 28 years, and a <meta property="og:url" content="https://wolfburn.com/blogs/news/three-matches-three-dram <meta property="og:image" content="https://wolfburn.com/cdn/shop/files/drams-for-tartan-a <meta property="og:image:width" content="1200">
<meta property="og:image:height" content="630">
<meta property="og:locale" content="en_GB">
<meta property="article:published_time" content="2026-05-31T09:00:00+01:00">
<meta property="article:author" content="Wolfburn Distillery">
<meta property="article:section" content="Distillery diary">
<meta property="article:tag" content="World Cup, Tartan Army, Scotland, Single Malt, Limi
```

←!— TWITTER / X —→

```
<meta name="twitter:card" content="summary_large_image">
<meta name="twitter:site" content="@wolfburn">
<meta name="twitter:title" content="Three Matches. Three Drams. One Summer.">
<meta name="twitter:description" content="Hand-bottled in Thurso for Scotland's three gro <meta name="twitter:image" content="https://wolfburn.com/cdn/shop/files/drams-for-tartan-
```

←!— SCHEMA.ORG · Article JSON-LD —→

```
<script type="application/ld+json">
{
  "@context": "https://schema.org",
  "@type": "Article",
  "headline": "Three Matches. Three Drams. One Summer.",
  "image": "https://wolfburn.com/cdn/shop/files/drams-for-tartan-army-set-og.jpg",
  "datePublished": "2026-05-31T09:00:00+01:00",
  "author": { "@type": "Organization", "name": "Wolfburn Distillery", "url": "https://wol
  "publisher": {
    "@type": "Organization",
    "name": "Wolfburn Distillery",
    "logo": { "@type": "ImageObject", "url": "https://wolfburn.com/cdn/shop/files/wolfbur
  },
}
```

```
"description": "A Wolfburn dispatch on Scotland's first World Cup in 28 years, and the "mainEntityOfPage": { "@type": "WebPage", "@id": "https://wolfburn.com/blogs/news/three
"articleSection": "Distillery diary",
"keywords": "Scotland World Cup, Tartan Army, single malt Scotch whisky, Archie Gemmill
}
</script>
```

↑ back to contents

The publishing schedule.

Every email, blog, and ad rotation tied to a specific date. Anchored to Scotland's three group fixtures.

31 MAY

T - 14D

Launch email + cornerstone blog

First allocation to newsletter list. Set of three goes live.

EMAIL · BLOG

7 JUN

T - 7D

Reminder email to non-openers

Re-engagement. Storefront opens to general public.

EMAIL

11 JUN

T - 3D

"The tournament begins" email

World Cup opens. Re-engagement send.

EMAIL

13 JUN

T - 1D

Match 1 countdown email: "Tomorrow. Foxborough."

The 10 Year Old is tomorrow's dram.

EMAIL

14 JUN

MATCH 1

Scotland v Haiti · 21:00 BST · Foxborough

Match-day blog at 16:00 BST: "Welcome to Caithness, Haiti."

BLOG

15 JUN

T + 1

Post-match reaction email (win / draw / loss · pick one)

Sent by 09:00 BST.

EMAIL

18 JUN

T + 4

Match 2 countdown email: "Tomorrow. Foxborough again."

The 8 Year Old is tomorrow's dram.

EMAIL

19 JUN

MATCH 2

Scotland v Morocco · 20:00 BST · Foxborough

Match-day blog at 15:00 BST: "Welcome to Caithness, Morocco."

BLOG

20 JUN

T + 6

Post-match reaction email (3 variants pre-written)

EMAIL

23 JUN

T + 9

Match 3 countdown email: "Tonight. Miami. The big one."

The 12 Year Old is tonight's dram.

EMAIL · BLOG

24 JUN

MATCH 3

Scotland v Brazil · 02:00 BST · Miami

Match-day blog at 20:00 BST on the 23rd: "Welcome to Caithness, Brazil."

BLOG

25 JUN

T+11

Post-match reaction email + group-stage wrap blog

EMAIL · BLOG

↑ back to contents

WOLFBURN × DIVERGENCE

COMPLETE CAMPAIGN COPY PACKAGE · REV 0.4 · 27 MAY 2026

INTERNAL · REVIEW & REDLINE · NOT FOR DISTRIBUTION OUTSIDE THE PROJECT TEAM